

Maninder Singh Kalra, MD, PhD, is director of Nationwide Children's Pediatric Sleep Disorder Center. Dr. Kalra earned his undergraduate and medical education at the Punjab University, India. He received his MS and PhD in epidemiology at University of Cincinnati. He is certified in pediatrics, pediatric pulmonology and sleep medicine. He also has experience teaching and lecturing on a variety of pulmonary-related topics.