

Jeff Gentry is Professor of Communication at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, New Mexico-USA. His primary research is in political communication and the rhetoric of science. He has produced six public-affairs specials for television and many Readers Theatre productions. A full-time university faculty member since 1988, he is trained in rhetorical criticism, content analysis, survey research, and ethnography.