

Glen Greenough is an Associate Professor of Medicine, Neurology and Psychiatry at the Geisel School of Medicine at Dartmouth. He is the Director of the Fellowship in Sleep Medicine at the Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center. He also teaches an undergraduate course on sleep and sleep disorders to undergraduates at Dartmouth College. He has been active with the American Academy of Sleep Medicine and is currently Vice-Chair of the Committee for Life-Long Learning.