

Dr. Randall Ow is an otolaryngologist with expertise in sleep surgery and clinical research. He has conducted nearly 100 clinical trials, including research through Davinci Research, which he founded in 2019, and brings more than 15 years of research experience. A leader in the ENT space, he has extensive experience with medical device and pharmaceutical companies, is widely published, and served as an investigator in the Osprey trial.